

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information presentation apparatus is provided presenting an interface suitable for selecting desired information from a plurality of information. The apparatus has three methods of presenting information.

5 The first method is to present information by sequentially playing and presenting a plurality of audio information related to the information in turn. The second method is to present the plurality of audio information at the same time wherein each sound has its directivity. The third method is 10 a combination of the first and second methods wherein user can select desired method between the two depending on kinds of information presented.

005120-840560